NauticEd Launches New Sailing Course: Anchoring a Sailboat

Today NauticEd released another sailing course: Anchoring a Sailboat. The sailing course focuses on knowledge required to effectively and successfully anchor a sailboat.

Captain's Alex and Daria Blackwell, authors of The Art of Anchoring, wrote the NauticEd specific sailing course. The sailing course consists of 12 modules and will be sold for $17 online at <http://www.NauticEd.org>.

The Anchoring a Sailboat sailing course modules are:

- Module 1: Introduction to Anchor Types
- Module 2: Anchor Types
- Module 3: Anchor Selection
- Module 4: Rode and Connections
- Module 5: Site Selection
- Module 6: Charts
- Module 7: Dropping the Anchor
- Module 8: Scope
- Module 9: Setting the Anchor
- Module 10: Swing
- Module 11: Time to Relax
- Module 12: Anchoring Etiquette

Grant Headifen, Educational Director of NauticEd, says that the Anchoring a Sailboat sailing course is a welcome addition to the 12 other sailing courses that NauticEd offers. NauticEd plans to make the Anchoring a Sailboat Course a prerequisite to gaining the NauticEd sailing certification rank of Bareboat Charter Master. "We'd received lots of requests for a comprehensive anchoring course from our students. Anchoring expertise is one of those really important sailing skills that is required and sort after. On a bareboat charter sailing vacation, for example, you spend more time at anchor than you do sailing. And anchoring is a bigger stress on the charterer than most other sailing activities. Charter companies don't really realize that more people would charter if the stress was taken out of overnight anchoring" says Headifen".

NauticEd believes that the Anchoring a Sailboat Course will be a big seller and will surpass their popular Maneuvering a Sailboat Under Power sailing course.
